The Greater Vitagraph Super-Serial

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

No expense has been spared, no detail has been overlooked to make absolutely sure that this twelve-hundred horse-power motor series reaches the top-notch point of serial perfection.

It is clean, wholesome, human. It is packed with punch, pep and power.

It bristles with adventure, mystery and romance.

It is the speediest, snappiest and most pepful series you ever saw.

Each episode features a different female star. Each episode is a rushing, rousing, thrilling automobile adventure. Each episode is a baffling mystery replete with unexpected turns and suspense. Each episode has a punch more virile, more potent than any ever injected into a photoplay serial. Sustained interest, heart pull, clippity-clip action, and a compelling force brings you back for each and every episode.

HEAVY EXPENSES FOR WEBER COUNTY IN ELECTION

When the county commissioners met this morning the first subject mentioned, prior to the official meeting, was the cost to the county of tomorrow's election. They have been informed that it will be between $7,000 and $8,000, which is considered excessive.

The cost of the 1912 election was $7,032.06, and the city and county election of 1914 cost $9,980.15.

The extraordinary cost this year is said to be due in part to the necessity of reprinting some of the ballots.

JAKE PARKER IS TO CELEBRATE

W. J. Parker of the Utah Cannery association will entertain the manufacturers located in Weber county, Wednesday noon, at a luncheon in the Weber club. The event was arranged for the purpose of receiving reports from the committees recently named to make plans for the annual Utah Products week celebration in Ogden.

The dinner, Mr. Parker states, will also be a celebration of his victory or defeat in the election tomorrow, he being a candidate for state senator.

LAMB CROP HAS BEEN VERY GOOD

Despite the 100 days' drought in the intermountain region, which was more acute than that of 1915, said the forest service officials today, some of the best lambs ever put on the market were shipped from the ranges this season.

February and March lambs averaged 78 and 80 pounds at Chicago without a cut. Add eight pounds shrinkage in transit, the average for the journey to Chicago, and it is seen that these lambs produced a gross weight of 86 and 88 pounds up to the time they left the forest.

Many big outfits have thus prospered.

JUDGE R. S. LOVETT IS A VISITOR TO THIS CITY

The most distinguished party of railroad officials that has visited Ogden in a number of months, passed several hours here yesterday, inspecting the union terminal properties and as guests of the Weber club. Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the executive board of the Union Pacific system, headed the party, and with him were E. E. Calvin, president of the Union Pacific system, B. L. Winchell, director of traffic of the Union Pacific system, and C. C. Stillman, vice-president, and E. E. Adams, consulting engineer of the Union Pacific railroad, and R. A. Dennis, private secretary to Mr. Winchell.

They arrived in the city at 10:50 a. m., from the northwest, on a special train, and were met at the depot by President W. H. Wadsworth of the Weber club, and members of the 1919 Transportation exposition committee, representatives of the Weber club and representatives of the Ogden Publicity bureau. Boarding automobiles, the visitors were taken for a drive about the city, to the Country club and to the mouth of Weber canyon.

On their return, they were guests of the club at an elaborate luncheon. President Wadsworth presided over this event as toastmaster, and welcomed the visitors. Responding to the welcome, Judge Lovett said the Union Pacific Railroad company considers Ogden one of the most important cities on its lines and that this city is a partner of the railroad in the development of this section of the country. Speaking further, he referred to the development of the west by means of irrigation, saying that the Union Pacific company had made many efforts to encourage projects and to get them financed in the east. These efforts, he continued, had almost been futile and irrigation development had been put squarely up to the men of the west.

Mayor A. R. Heywood, in a following speech, said that Ogden is more than a city of brick, mortar and scenery, being blessed with a citizenry that possess a splendid spirit of co-operation, loyalty and progress. This city, he declared, equals Omaha in importance to the Union Pacific com-

DEAD BANDIT, KILLED IN BATTLE WITH CONDUCTOR

CHARLES McCULLEN

About 19 years old, transient stranger in Ogden, shot and killed by street car Conductor Wood while McCullen and a companion, who escaped, were attempting to rob the conductor, October 30 at 7:30 p. m.

The dead youth weighs 140 pounds. There is a red scar on the back of his left hand, also one on his right hand, both apparently from recent wounds, and a scar about 2 1/2 inches long just above the right knee.

The dead youth's eyes were blue and he had heavy dark auburn hair. McCullen's partner, who was badly wounded but escaped, is about 21 years old, 5 feet 9 inches, and weighs about 150 pounds. He wore a black hat.

Deputy Sheriff Hobson stated today that Conductor Wood is positive that McCullen, the decedent, was the one who shot him. When the two young men boarded the car, Conductor Wood had an intuitive warning of their intention to rob him, but their peaceful appearance allayed his suspicion for a moment. He states that he was just about to say: "I thought you fellows pany and should therefore have general offices located here.

President Calvin spoke briefly on the subject of western irrigation and other brief talks were made by B. L. Winchell, D. C. Eccles and C. C. Stillman.

The inspection of the union terminal followed the luncheon, and the railroad party departed for Salt Lake City early in the evening.

Judge Lovett was asked if the double-track work in Utah would be continued at any near future date for the completion of a double-track line between Ogden and Granger.

"Eventually that will be done," said he, "but not for some years to come. The filling of the gaps in Wyoming will give us a complete double track from Omaha to Granger, and at the latter point traffic divides to the northwest and other directions, so that the present demand is not sufficient to warrant continuing the complete double-track system further."

"Of course double-tracking is being done in Utah now in Echo canyon and this will be finished, but the completion of a double track between Ogden and Granger will not come just now."

In regard to business conditions Mr. Lovett had this to say: "They are extraordinarily good everywhere I have been. In fact, they are unprecedented."

Judge Lovett was asked if the war were entirely responsible for the wave of prosperity in the country.

"No, it is not," said he. "The war is not solely responsible for conditions, though it has had much to do with them by increasing the prices of foods. The prosperity in the west is due mainly to the high prices of grain, sugar, wool, foodstuffs and the products of our mines."

"On the other hand, men are employed at higher wages, and, getting higher wages, they are inclined to spend more, to buy more than the common necessities of life; in other words, to indulge in luxuries to a greater extent, and this all goes to make business better."

"In addition, there have been fairly satisfactory crops, and all these things go to bring about the general prosperity which is so evident throughout the country."

Judge Lovett was asked about politics.

"I left politics at home," was his prompt reply. "I am out on a business trip, and I have nothing to say about politics."

ALMA J. LINDSAY CHANGES POSITION

Leaving Scowcroft's after 18 years' service, Alma J. Lindsay has accepted a position with the Murphy Grocery and Drug company, with headquarters next to Brownings on Hudson avenue. Mr. Lindsay will be buyer and sales manager in his new service.

were holdups," when one of them, gun in hand, ordered him to deliver his money. When the conductor reached toward his pocket, one of them cried, "Lookout!" and the next instant McCullen fired. When McCullen was fatally shot by the conductor, he staggered 20 feet away and fell, but got up and walked half a block to the place where he died.

The conductor shot the other robber at a distance of about 100 feet. Despite his serious wound, evidently through the lungs, the bandit escaped and was trailed a mile or more by the blood.

It is believed at the sheriff's office that the escaped bandit probably crept into the underbrush and died from loss of blood, or that he had friends in Ogden who rescued him and are shielding him.

Sheriff DeVine has sent out a large number of photographs in the hope of identifying the dead youth.

The body can be kept for months, if necessary, though this will not be done. The corpse is unusually life-like. The youth looks, as if he were asleep and there is nothing gruesome or repulsive in the appearance of the body.

INSURANCE MEN ARE TO BE INVITED TO OGDEN

Acting upon a suggestion from the Ogden Publicity bureau, a strong effort is to be made by the Life and Fire Insurance Underwriters of Ogden to bring the 1917 annual convention of underwriters and commissioners to Ogden. This decision was reached this noon at a luncheon meeting of local life and fire insurance men in the Weber club.

The meeting followed a conference between George D. Bennett and George J. Kelly, of the two underwriters' associations, with Secretary James P. Casey of the Ogden Publicity bureau, at which Ogden's logical fitness as a convention city was discussed in detail. The points in favor of bringing the convention here were presented at the luncheon and the proposition was enthusiastically endorsed.

Before adjournment, J. W. Forristall, J. J. Brummitt and B. H. Goddard, fire underwriters, were selected to meet with a similar committee of life underwriters and plan a campaign to land the big convention for Ogden next year. They will take the matter up with the Salt Lake associations and if their endorsement is forthcoming, will extend the invitation to the executive committee of the national organization.

Should the invitation be accepted, it will result in bringing an insurance commissioner from every state in the Union and several thousand underwriters here next fall.

WARNING TO YOUNG BOYS RIDING ON BICYCLES

Wilfred Froerer, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Froerer, 2389 Monroe avenue, who collided, riding a bicycle, with an automobile driven by C. J. Adams, a dairyman, at Jefferson avenue and Twenty-fifth street, Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock, was sufficiently recovered today to attend school. It was feared at first that the boy's injuries were serious. His sister, 11 years old, riding behind him, was uninjured as by a miracle.

The view of both the boy and Mr. Adams was cut off by a slow-moving dray. Had the boy been riding more rapidly a fatality would probably have resulted.

Mr. Froerer said today that the narrow escape of his children ought to be a warning to others to always "stop, look and listen" to make sure that no other vehicle is passing behind the one in view.

A CARICATURE THE SUPREME ARGUMENT

Simon Bamberger—the actual photograph from which the fake was made.

THE REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE DISTRIB-
UTES CARICATURE IN GUISE OF PORTRAIT OF
SIMON BAMBERGER IN ORDER TO AROUSE RA-CIAL AND CREED ANTAG-ONISM AGAINST HIM FOR THE BENEFIT OF NEPHI
L. MORRIS.

The Caricature—circulated as a real photograph by the Republican State Committee.

To The People of Utah:

Having been a neighbor of Simon Bamberger for more than thirty years, during which I have observed closely his life, I feel that I would be failing in my duty as a citizen if I did not publicly resent the insult contained in the vicious and libelous circular issued by the Republican State Committee for the purpose of injuring Mr. Bamberger's candidacy. In this circular Mr. Bamberger is grossly caricatured, though the caricature is put out as an actual portrait.

The evident attempt of this vile caricature is to call attention to the fact that Mr. Bamberger is a Jew, and because of this fact to arouse religious and racial prejudice against him.

Mr. Bamberger is a Jew, but he is first of all an American citizen and is incapable of stooping so low as to attempt to inject a religious question into a political campaign.

When the people of Utah needed a sincere friend, Simon Bamberger was just that. In his long residence in Utah Mr. Bamberger has given very many tangible evidences of his friendship for all of its people of every creed.

I do not believe the people of Utah will persecute Mr. Bamberger because he belongs to the persecuted race of ancient times. This creed objection is the culmination of the Republican campaign—the supposedly insuperable objection to him.

I have known Mr. Bamberger for many years. He is a good neighbor, a good citizen in the highest and best sense. As a business man he ranks with the best in the state. He is incorruptibly honest, and I know he will carry out to the last letter every promise of his platform.

Hence, I appeal to you and to everyone who wants good government to rebuke the lying libels that are being circulated, and to vote for this man, who means what he says and who will do what he says.
